

With regard to the proposal allowing LPFM to take priority over translator service - I would care to voice my opposition to this. In the Denver, CO market there are no other stations that play contemporary Christian music other than K-LOVE which operates off a translator. Most of the folks I am friends with all listen to K-LOVE, and the loss of said station would be a great loss to many in our community. The evidence of this is that K-LOVE is listener funded and the Denver (and most of Colorado for that matter) is fully funded in their fund drives. K-LOVE is a family friendly alternative to the likes of 'Lewis and Floorwax' on KRFX in the morning whose main topic is something to do with sex and are seldom diverted from it. I can't see how Clear Channel is allowed to broadcast that tripe but LPFM may be allowed to overrun Christian radio. I urge you to reconsider that proposal and leave things as they are, allowing my community a choice to the likes of Howard Stern, Lewis and Floorwax, etc.
